Not everything in this Festival will please you. There are people who are still complaining about our performances of Xenakis' Kraanerg, staged two years ago; those who continue to complain about the invention of the wheel. But as young, confident Australians with a profound belief in our Country's future, the members of Alpha Centauri join Adorno in declaring

Art as experiment will survive

Art as security will not

We look forward to meeting you at our concerts both this year and next, when we will considerably expand our activities.
