

Welcome to the second Sydney Spring International Festival of New Music.

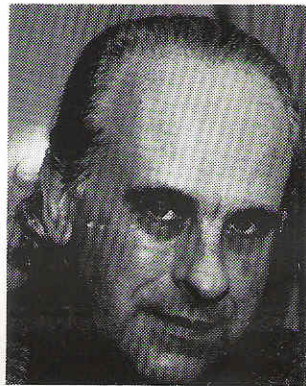

Our country is blessed with great musical talent and the necessary skills to greet the turn of the century. Through our own efforts we have chosen not to be isolated - we need look no further than the achievements of Goossens, Tintner, Mackerras, Pikler, our composers and the new breed of performer-composer. We should, and we do, play European "art" music but we also need to continue to produce experimental music of our own.

The renaissance of the performer-composer in recent seasons has provided a lively inspiration, more especially because the new breed of virtuosi knows its ensemble, as well as its solo, repertoire well; its computers, as well as diverse improvisational techniques.

Compact disc recordings made with ABC Live Music during the first Festival were successfully distributed by the Dutch company, Etcetera, in twenty-five countries during 1991. In France and Holland two recordings were chosen Record of the Month above all other worldwide releases. Further CDs will be produced during the second and third Festivals with The Soloists of Alpha Centauri who have been invited to perform at La Scala and to tour Europe in December 1992.

Our theme is unity - this Spring Festival is here to stay. We offer our new subscribers and foundation members double the number of last year's concerts and hope that audiences may take delight in our programmes.

The third Sydney Spring International Festival of New Music will be held 16-25 October, 1992.
